My Name: Sr. Felicity Therese Drakuru

Who am I: I am a religious sister, daughter of God, servant of the Catholic Church, an educationist, Biology and chemistry secondary school teacher, retired Head teacher-turned writer. Yeah I am a writer; I always have been though not by profession. I have the skill, people tell me so.

I belong to a religious institute called Little Sisters of Mary Immaculate of Gulu based in Uganda. This congregation has charisma for girls and women empowerment, and care of vulnerable people such as the sick and disabled children.

My education: Master of education from Makerere University in Kampala Uganda; Bachelor of Biology and Chemistry from Felician College (Now University) in Lodi New Jersey, USA; Post Graduate diploma in Education from Makerere University. That is all. A bunch of capacity building courses, workshops for various skills, all Education related.

My Work Experience: 37 wonderful years of teaching chemistry and Biology in various secondary schools, Head teacher in various girls schools, Such as Ikwera Girls Secondary School in Apac District Uganda; Ediofe Girls Secondary School in Arua District, Uganda; Stella Matutina Girls Secondary School in Kiryandongo District, Uganda; Morulem Girls Secondary School in Abim District in Karamoja, Uganda; then Sacred Heart Secondary School, the gigantic girls school in Gulu District, Northern Uganda, where I wound up my active teaching career.

In between those years I was also Deputy Head teacher in a purely Boys School, Comboni College in Lira District, Uganda.

This experience of Educational Leadership, Management and administration required me to write a lot of reports, project proposals, notices, minutes and others. Thus over the years my writing skills improved and it has encouraged me to put it to innovative use.

My writing experience; I have written a few times for the HEAD TEACHERS VOICE, an annual magazine of the Association of Secondary School Head teachers of Uganda (ASSHU), a few for LEADERSHIP, a monthly Magazine for Christian leaders. I have a bunch of other unpublished writings which are posted on this blog.

Therefore, article writing, copy writing, ghost writing, and other types of content writing can come to me easily.
